Focus On Political Front

Campuses Return To Quiet

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

College students continued to focus their antiwar protests on the political front Monday, leaving campuses quiet after two weeks of sometimes violent demonstrations. Several schools closed in memory of two Negro youths slain Friday at Jackson State College.

Typical of the actions taken by many young people, about 100 North Carolina State University students left Raleigh Monday by car for Washington where they planned to meet with congressmen.

The student strike steering committee at the University of Connecticut in Storrs announced plans for a national coordinating center for political opposition to a House-passed bill dealing with defense facilities and the Industrial Security Act.

David Howe, a spokesman for the group, said the bill would allow the federal government to involve itself in campus unrest as long as the college concerned holds a defense contract. "The bill would give unprecedented and almost unlimited power to the executive branch...at the expense of the judicial branch and the individual," said Howe.

The Brandeis University strike information center—a student-run group—at Waltham, Mass., said there was some strike activity Monday on 265 campuses. About 150 of those schools are among the nation's 1,500 four-year colleges and universities. The others include junior colleges and specialized institutions of higher education.

About a dozen schools remained officially closed for the remainder of the school year.

The protests were touched off by President Nixon's sending U.S. troops into Cambodia. They intensified after four Kent State University students were fatally shot at the Ohio campus in a confrontation with National Guardsmen. Further protests were touched off by the killing of six blacks during racial violence in Augusta, Ga. and the Jackson slayings.

Knoxville College in Knoxville, Tenn., a predominantly black school with 900 students, closed until Thursday in sympathy for the students slain at Jackson.

Directors of the University of Cincinnati, which closed May 3 and was to be reopened Monday morning, agreed to have the school stay shut for the rest of the term as a memorial to the students at Jackson. There are 16,500 day students.

Students from Howard University in Washington and Lincoln University in Oxford, Pa., met with Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell in the nation's capital. Some of the students proposed he establish a federal strike force to probe the Jackson and Augusta killings.

Mitchell already has ordered a Justice Department probe of both incidents. He went to Jackson Monday afternoon.

About 60 St. Louis members of the Kent State University Alumni Association sent letters to 11 area colleges and universities asking them to avoid violence.

Dave Meeker, one of the alumni said the group asked the schools "to work for a restoration of reason and pursuit of a meaningful dialogue both on campus and in the community."

Acting on a suggestion from Bloomington, Ind., Mayor John Hooker Jr., students at the University of Indiana scheduled a "keep the lines of communication open" discussion program for 240 persons, including students, businessmen and civic leaders.

Students at the University of Virginia in Charlottesville wound up a two-day seminar seeking to mobilize support of congressional leaders and peace candidates against the war. About 100 students from 15 Virginia schools attended.

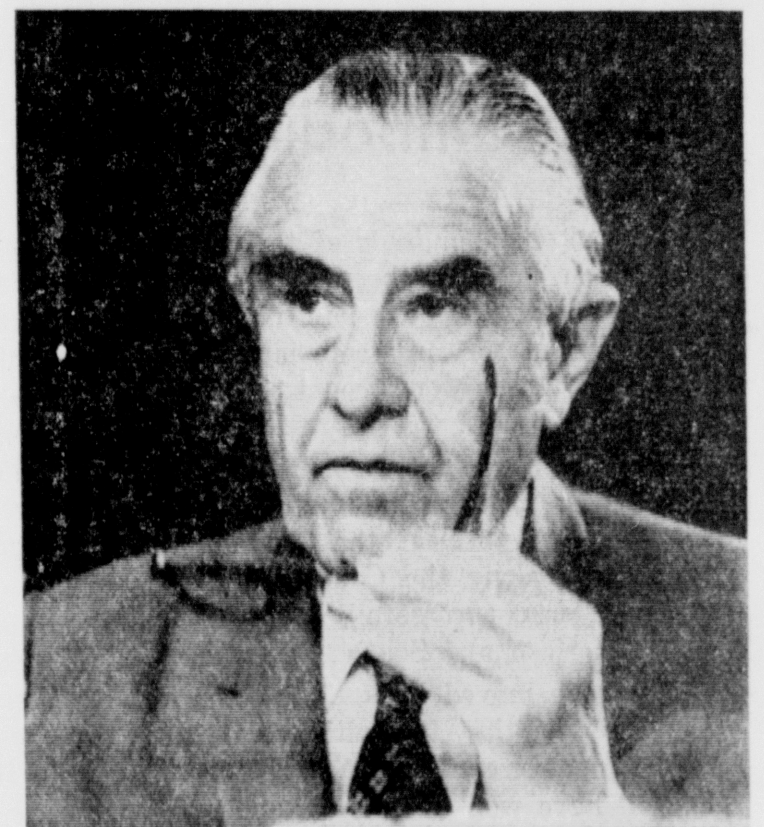

Sixteen students at the Virginia Polytechnic Institute in Blacksburg continued a bread and water fast they began last week in an attempt to get the school president to rescind the suspension of 107 students who occupied a campus building.

In Washington, the Student Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam said antiwar demonstrations were planned for Memorial Day, May 30, in at least eight U.S. cities.

Students at the University of Maryland in College Park held a rally, opening the program with memorials to the victims of Kent State, Augusta and Jackson State.

Three university juniors, all leaders of the Students for a Democratic Society, were arrested Sunday, charged with breaking and entering in connection with the sacking of the administration building last Thursday. National Guardsmen were called on to the campus following the incident and nine truckloads stood by as the Monday rally began.

Livingston Hall, a four-story building at Fisk University, a predominantly black school in Nashville, Tenn., was destroyed by fire Monday. Officials blamed the blaze on arson. The student body president, Geraldine Jenkins, said, "There have been factions of students and community persons who are bent on destroying the university rather than building it."

WASHINGTON — W. Averell Harriman, an elder statesman of the cold war, testifying before a joint Congressional Economic Committee recently, warned the hot war in Indochina cannot be won on the battlefield. "The simple truth is that there is no way of achieving political victory in Vietnam through military action," Harriman said. (UPI Photo)

Laird Reassures Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — While the Senate debated whether to endorse curbs on President Nixon's control of military operations in Cambodia, an administration spokesman insisted Monday these operations will not endanger the disarmament talks with the Soviet Union.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird gave his reassurances to a Senate foreign relations subcommittee headed by Sen. J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., who voiced skepticism about the secretary's conclusions.

Earlier in the day, in a byplay on the Senate-President dispute over policy in Southeast Asia, Fulbright blocked Foreign Relations Committee action on an ambassadorial nominee in an effort to force release of more information on that policy.

"This is one way to bring this to an issue," Fulbright said in announcing suspension of hearings on the nomination of Robert McClintock to be ambassador to Venezuela.

The 61-year-old career diplomat aroused the committee's ire last fall when, testifying as a State Department official, he refused to give certain information on overseas commitments. He said he acted on instructions from Secretary of State William P. Rogers.

But Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., said Monday "I don't see how we can confirm one who is even a conduit or such an attitude."

At the same time the United States endorsed a call for an Indochina peace conference issued by representatives of 11 Asian and Pacific nations meeting at Jakarta, Indonesia.

The U.S.-Soviet Strategic Arms Limitation Talks—SALT—were not an overriding consideration in the decision to strike into Cambodia Laird told the Senate panel.

"The overriding concern was the Vietnamization program and assuring the success of it, secondly assuring further withdrawal of U.S. troops, and thirdly reducing U.S. casualties," Laird said.

"I'm asking about the effect on the talks in Vienna," Fulbright said.

"I do not believe it would have a substantial effect as far as SALT is concerned," Laird said.

Fulbright said if he had to weight the two issues, Cambodia and SALT, "I would come down on the side of SALT instead of the Parrot's Beak or even the Fishhook."

Referring to the unprecedented Moscow news conference by Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin Fulbright said, "I think it's regrettable the Russians expressed dismay about the seriousness of U.S. intentions in Vienna" in the sake of the Cambodian move.

Laird was asked about the report by the South Vietnamese foreign minister that South Vietnamese troops were operating in Cambodia. Laird said he wanted to see a complete text of this report.

Could Laird say whether or not South Vietnamese troops have invaded Laos? Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., asked.

Laird then went into an extended explanation of ground rules or U.S. and Vietnamese troops which allow crossing the border in certain situations.

"There have been no changes as far as the use of American ground forces invading Laos," Laird said, adding no penetrations of U.S. forces have occurred except in connection with running combat engagements at the border, rescue of downed airmen or in support of the air interdiction campaign along the trail.

Red China Cancels Session With U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a most unexpected action, Communist China Monday canceled the ambassadorial talk with the United States scheduled for Warsaw on Wednesday, declaring an "increasingly grave situation" has been created by American action in Cambodia.

But Peking left the door ajar or fairly early re-scheduling of what would have been the 137th in the series of Warsaw talks between the two powers which have no regular diplomatic relations.

Despite the criticism, officials here viewed the protest as relatively low key, even though they expressed regret at the delay.

U.S. specialists on China affairs said they do not feel the postponement is the signal for another 2-year break in discussions between Washington and Peking.

It is believed likely by these informants that a withdrawal of U.S. forces from Cambodia by July 1 as President Nixon has promised would create the condition for resumption of the dialogue.

The Chinese announcement was made by the New China News Agency and its English international service and was monitored here.

Two Chinese diplomats called on Thomas W. Simmons at the U.S. embassy in Warsaw and informed him that the Wednesday meeting is deemed "no longer suitable" because the United States had "brazenly sent troops to invade Cambodia and expanded the war in Indochina."

However, the way was left open for resumption of the talks

PHNOM PENH, CAMBODIA — Brig. Gen. Sosthen Fernandez relaxes during a lull in fighting near Phnom Penh. Fernandez was arrested in the March coup, when he was security minister under Prince Sihanouk. He pledged allegiance to the new government, however, and was appointed commanding general of the Cambodian army.

National Guard Leaves Augusta

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — National Guard troops pulled out Monday and a curfew was lifted from this city where six blacks were shot to death by police last week during racial violence.

The Augusta City Council, approved establishment of a biracial human rights commission, a demand made by Negro leaders after the trouble.

In other developments, the Southern Christian Leadership Conference prepared for a 100-mile march through Georgia, beginning Tuesday, to protest the killings. Plans were made for a Sunday meeting of administrators and student leaders from Negro colleges and universities.

At the height of the trouble, about 2,000 National Guardsmen were on duty in the city. Gov. Lester Maddox said Monday the Guard saved "a multitude of lives" and tens of millions of dollars in property.

Maddox said that "six had already been killed before we got into Augusta, and others would have been burned and shot if we hadn't arrived."

The Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, SCLC president, announced the march while in Augusta Sunday for the funeral of five of the victims. Funeral services for the sixth were held Monday.

Abernathy said the march would end in a rally at Atlanta Saturday.

The SCLC president said the march will begin Tuesday at 10 a.m. in Perry, about 110 miles south of Atlanta. It will use a mule-drawn wagon with six empty caskets to symbolize the Augusta deaths.

Hosea Williams, another SCLC official, said about 100 to 150 marchers from throughout Georgia are expected to take part. He said others from throughout the country had expressed interest in taking part, but they were asked to wait until the Saturday rally in Atlanta.

Williams said the line of march goes through the heart of Perry, Fort Valley, Macon, Forsyth and Griffin before reaching Atlanta. Marchers will gather at the tomb of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. in Atlanta, march one mile to the state Capitol and then to Morehouse College for the mass rally.

Court Boosts News Rights

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court broadened the rights of newspapers and labor unions Monday by sidestepping a ruling on political gerrymandering.

Nearing term's end, the court agreed also to review municipal loitering ordinances and let stand a lower-court decision that strongly upholds women's rights to equal pay for equal work.

The newspaper decision assured the press and broadcasters they cannot be held liable for reporting free-swinging debate on public issues.

Until the court stepped in, the publishers of a weekly newspaper in Greenbelt, Md., stood to lose $17,500 for reporting that allegations of blackmail had been leveled at a local developer at city council meetings.

"Even the most careless reader must have perceived that the word was no more than rhetorical hyperbole, a vigorous epithet," said Justice Potter Stewart in announcing reversal of the libel judgment in a 7-1 opinion.

The decision went on to say that the First Amendment strictly limits the scope of libel judgments so that the press may freely report issues of community concern without financial worry.

The labor ruling said employers may be ordered to stop threatening pro-union workers even though an unchallenged election was held at the plant and the majority of workers voted against union representation.

The unanimous decision gives the National Labor Relations Board greater power to make sure workers are not being intimidated when they choose whether to be unionized.

The ruling involved efforts to organize the more than 500 workers at Raytheon's Mountain View plant in California. The company will have a chance to argue in a federal appeals court against enforcement of a cease-and-desist order.

Gerrymandering—the drawing of legislative district lines to benefit the dominant political party—never has been ruled on by the Supreme Court. The question was turned aside again as the justices unanimously approved new congressional districts in New York state.

Set down for argument next term was Cincinnati's loitering law, a ban on sidewalk assemblies by three or more persons who annoy passersby or occupants of nearby buildings.

Five convicted men said officials have unconstitutional authority to prosecute simply because they don't like them. The Ohio Supreme Court upheld the ordinance in January.

In the women's case a Millville, N.J. glass manufacturer, tried to upset an appeals court decision that the company must pay men and women packers the same salary.

The company said the men performed extra task, such as lifting bulky cartons of glass containers but the court refused to hear the appeal.

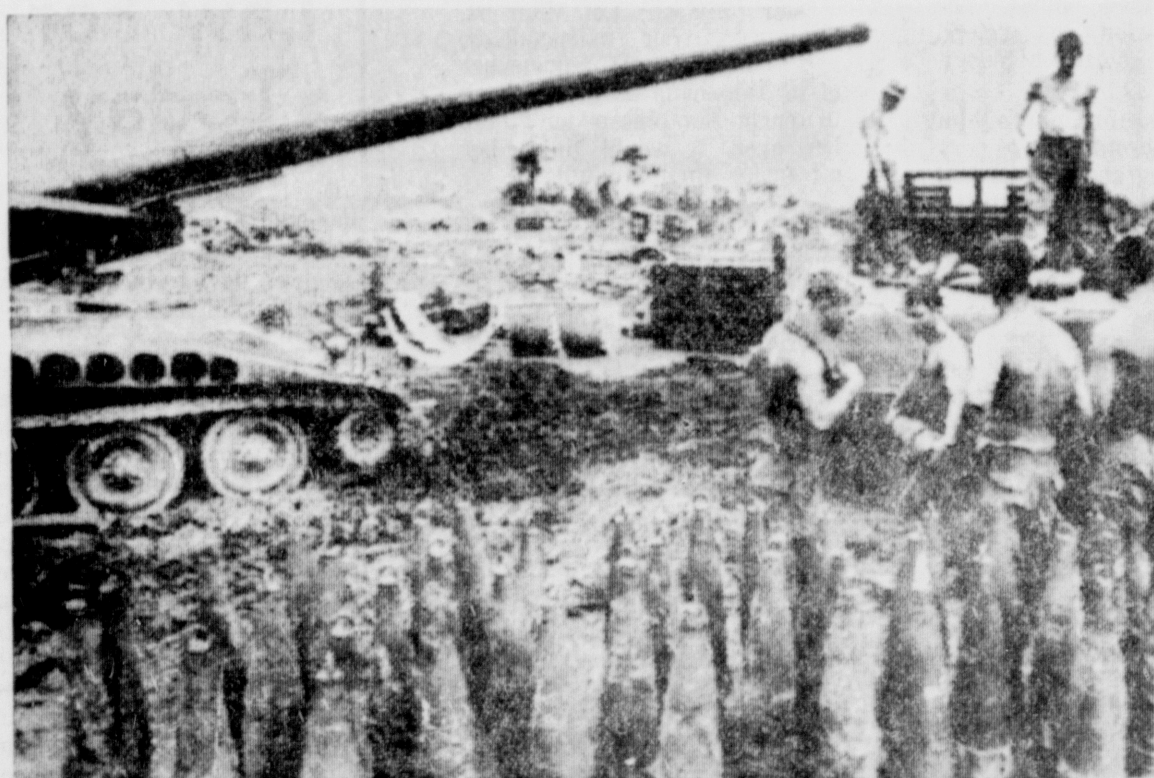

The action evidently means companies can be required to pay equal wages when men and women do essentially—but not exactly—the same work.

U.S. Field Commanders Describe Delay

North Viets Hit Key Highway Junction

SAIGON (AP) — In one of their closest thrusts to Phnom Penh, North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces attacked a key highway junction in Cambodia Monday, blew up a bridge and encircled the town of Tram Khnar.

In South Vietnam, government forces observed a 24-hour unilateral cease-fire to mark the birthday of Buddha.

But U.S. and South Vietnamese moved ahead with their campaign in Cambodia—and the enemy also was on the attack.

The assault at Tram Khnar brought the enemy forces to a point 25 miles south of Phnom Penh, the Cambodian capital.

The battle site also is about 25 miles north of Takeo, which a task force of 10,000 South Vietnamese troops and 200 American advisers reached Sunday, claiming to have killed 211 enemy on the 20-mile drive from the western Mekong Delta.

The thrust was aimed at seizing control of the intersection of Highways 2 and 25 halfway between the capital and the Gulf of Siam, North Vietnamese troops captured Takeo May 2 but were driven out last week by Cambodian forces supported by South Vietnamese fighter-bombers.

Tram Khnar is on the main highway leading south from Phnom Penh—a route running parallel to Highway 2 through Takeo. Cambodian spokesmen reported several other towns in the same province under "harassment."

The city of Kompong Cham, 78 road miles northeast of Phnom Penh, was under full control of Cambodian troops Monday but enemy forces still threatened it from entrenched positions in the outskirts. Officials there reported to Associated Press correspondents that the Kompong Cham situation is still dangerous. The enemy broke into the city Saturday but withdrew the next day.

A South Vietnamese commander, Lt. Gen. Do Cao Tri, few to Kompong Cham by helicopter and conferred with Gen. Phan Moeng of the Cambodian army. Moeng asked for six battalions of South Vietnamese rangers but Tri told him he would consider the request only if the Cambodians took the offensive around Kompong Cham and tried to drive the enemy out of the area. Moeng replied he could not do this until he is certain the pressure of the enemy forces was more sufficiently reduced. Tri promised air support.

No significant action was reported from the U.S. phases of the Cambodian operation, but U.S. field commanders expressed doubt that they could complete their jobs by the June 30 deadline set by President Nixon for withdrawal of American forces.

Since U.S. forces first entered Cambodia on May 1, only 30 per cent of the operations areas of places like the Fishhook had been covered, the commanders told AP correspondent Peter Arnett.

They said the thrust was rapidly slowing down because of strengthened resistance by the enemy, early morning fog and late afternoon rains, and U.S. Command orders to return captured enemy supplies to South Vietnam.

"We would much rather blow these caches up and move," one senior officer of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division said. "The need to secure these places, then ship the stuff out is slowing us down terribly. The political requirements in this operation are overshadowing the military requirements."

The commanders contended that the 30 per cent of the areas the U.S. troops have now covered are the easiest parts. Many of the remaining areas have triple canopy jungle, hills and heavy bunkers.

A similar estimate of 30 per cent was given in an interview Sunday by Lt. Gen. Michael S. Davison, commander of the 10,000 U.S. troops in Cambodia.

The increasing evidence is that the large supply dumps so far uncovered in the Fishhook and adjoining areas are only way stations on the trails into South Vietnam, the commanders told Arnett.

They said the bigger caches could be in the jungle or deeper in Cambodia.

U.S. forces are not allowed to proceed farther than 21.7 miles into Cambodia from South Vietnam. South Vietnamese forces are allowed to go beyond that.

In South Vietnam, a government spokesman accused the Viet Cong of violating the Buddhist holiday cease-fire, although the Communist command never did say it would observe it.

Attention in Laos, the third Indochinese country, focused on the Bolovens Plateau, a rice-growing area, where increasing numbers of North Vietnamese troops have been sighted since the allied Cambodian campaign got under way.

Informants in Vientiane, the Laotian capital, said that North Vietnamese unit attacked a government position 1.2 miles outside the Bolovens Plateau town of Saravane but were driven off. But they added that an attack on Saravane appeared imminent.

TUESDAY, MAY 19 — Born today, you are somewhat inclined to take for granted the good will of friends and loved ones and, in so doing, you are sometimes less than careful about guarding their good opinion of you. It is not true that you can do as you please and those who know and like (or love) you will forgive you all transgressions without a second thought. Rather, you will have to live up to accepted standards of behavior if you are to continue in good graces of those near and dear to you.

Destined to be something of a self-made man or woman where success is concerned, you are often less than sympathetic toward those who insist upon proper training, proper schooling for their chosen careers. You must understand, however, that not everyone has the talent you have for creating within himself the conditions he desires and needs to meet the outside circumstances of his life. Most people need training.

Your ability to get along with young people is outstanding and invaluable. You should be able to lend your insights, sympathies, and general understanding to the guidance of the young in such a way that in your later years many successful people will look to you as the one who made it all possible in the first place. Don't betray such an opportunity.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Wednesday, May 20
TAURUS (April 21-May 21) — Don't worry about things of a financial nature at this time. If you do, you will perhaps overlook something more important.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21) —

Desperation will get you no nearer the solution to your difficulties. Hope for a reasonable way out of things.

CANCER (June 22-July 23) — Return to your efforts of yesterday if you would see profit by today's end. Don't be surprised at a sudden turn of events.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23) — Share unexpected good fortune with others who have helped you get where you are. Don't hesitate to move forward.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23) — A mood of calculating aloofness may mar the day for you. Take care, however, not to judge another by the moment.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23) — Let your sympathy for another guide your behavior toward him. You may find yourself in an enviable position by evening.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 23) — The warmth of your personality should be enough to firm up any relationship recently grown cold through your absence. A good day.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22) — Take care that the breath of scandal does not touch you or loved ones at this time. Keep your behavior beyond reproach.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20) — Though an emotional response should be tempered with a rational one, you would do better to react emotionally than not at all.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19) — Don't be too trusting of another when it comes to getting your work done. The wise Aquarius will rely on his own efforts.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 21) — Express your feelings as best you can. What another fails to understand about you will just have to remain a blank for him.

ARIES (March 22-April 20) — Emotional tensions could cause you to make mistakes this afternoon unless you exercise exceptional caution. Take your time.

Betty Canary Dad: A Babe In The Grocery

My husband as a will power of iron when it comes to salesmen. Perhaps because he is a salesman himself. (For all I know, those who hold jobs as salesmen may be vaccinated against other salesmen.) Anyway, he never has trouble resisting bargains and has never been known to succumb to furniture store ads that say, "Last Day for Terrific Savings!" He has never signed a contract and been sorry about it the following day. Surely he would never find himself, as I have, the owner of a pair of purple gloves that don't fit but were a steal at $1.19.

At one time, true, he had difficulty walking through hardware stores without ending up owning more gadgets than the hardware stores. But, once he had the basement filled with such marvels as a combination nutcracker-automobile jack and musical tack hammers, he developed an immunity to hardware stores.

The one place he should never enter is a grocery. Once inside a supermarket, his will of iron turns to Silly Putty.

Upon occasion I have forgotten his weakness and asked him to stop by the store on the way home to pick up a pound of coffee.

The manager always welcomes him with open arms.

And, why not? Who else helps him win the Manager of the Month award in a single day?

The minute his car pulls into the parking lot, word of his arrival spreads through the store. ("Get out that case of giant mushrooms, Harry, your produce sales are going to triple!") After loading up on mushrooms, avocados, pomegranates and fancy pears that surely grew on stems of gold, he heads for the baked goods.

The girl in Bakery Goods is ready for him. She keeps a special cart just for his purchases. Probably it's two or three carts fastened together and powered by tiny jet engines. Chin deep in chocolate eclairs, cream-filled doughnuts and enough Bismarcks to sink the Bismarck, he reaches the place from whence, someday, I expect him never to return. He is in Fancy Groceries.

Once here, he wildly gathers cans of 90-cent turtle soup with one hand while, with the other, he collects crabapples in brandy sauce, spiced peaches and gem-like jellies which must have been prepared for the table of the queen of England. (They ended up on our grocery shelves because the queen refused to trade in her crown jewels and buy them.)

Tiring after loading a cart with pickled artichoke hearts, he tops off his visit with only eight cans of caviar and four packages of imported biscuits, whereupon he writes a check very close in amount to what the U.S. Treasury invests annually on the space program.

Staggering into the kitchen, he says, "I picked up a few things while I was at the store." As we spend a half-hour together storing his purchases, one of the children runs down to the market for the coffee he forgot.

Owner Of Derby Winner Draws Fire For World Hunt Of Big-Game Trophies

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (NEA) — Owing the Kentucky Derby winner has resulted in some unpleasant moments for Robert E. Lehmann recently, most of which occur when he opens his morning mail.

Not that anyone objects to Dust Commander, his little three-year-old who beat a 17-horse field by five lengths on Derby Day. No, indeed. It is Lehmann's hobby — big-game hunting—that has inspired objections, mostly in the form of nasty letters.

(Post - Derby newspaper stories reported that Lehmann had just returned from India where, among other things, he killed two tigers while on safari.)

"Most of the irate letters come from little-old-lady-types in New York who ask, in essence, 'How could you?' and then get personal," Lehmann said. "It amounts to adverse publicity and I'm sort of upset by it."

"I don't blame these people, not really. They're just ignorant and uninformed about what goes on in other parts of the world... maybe that's our problem with a lot of things."

Lehmann, 49, owns a 630-acre farm near Paris, Ky., a 100-acre farm in Ocala, Fla., and another residence in Ohio. Altogether, more than 100 stuffed animals reside on these premises and none of them are horses. He says he does not regret killing any of them.

Take tigers, for example. Tigers allegedly are in danger of becoming extinct in India. Tigers are very beautiful, very mean and generally very hungry. Nobody wants a beautiful, mean, hungry tiger to become extinct—nobody, according to Lehmann, except the people of India.

"More than 10,000 persons were killed in India by tigers and leopards last year," Lehmann said. "The tiger has been a natural enemy of man in India for thousands of years. Invariably, they are man-eaters or buffalo or cattle killers. I waited 21 days last year, mostly in a tree, to kill a tiger the natives said had killed 117 persons. The people of the village celebrated for 24 hours and treated me like some kind of god."

"Once an animal tastes human flesh, he becomes a man-killer. He attacks babies and older people mostly because they're easier to catch. Even when he's injured, a tiger can always lie in wait for a human."

"Overpopulation and the extreme heat make it even easier for the tiger to kill in India."

Polly's Pointers

Old Nylon Hose Put To Good Use

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—I have two Pointers for Mrs. F.J.E., who wanted some uses for old nylon hose other than crocheting rugs. Make a pretty pillow of some washable fabric and use the nylon, cut into strips, for the stuffing. The whole thing can be thrown into the washing machine. They dry quickly.

The girls in the office where I work wear them under their wigs. The stocking holds one's own hair in place and keeps the wig from slipping. —KIMBERLY

DEAR POLLY—I save my old nylon hose and use them when brushing my hair. I slip the brush inside a stocking, it acts as a magnet for lint, dust and dead-skin flakes and keeps the brush clean. Snip off the stocking beyond the end of the brush. When finished pull off and throw away. No fuss, no mess. One stocking will do for about four brushings when used this way.—MRS. A.M.G.

DEAR POLLY and Mrs. F. J. E. — In the summer, when our children's swimming pool is out, loose grass is a major problem. We slip an old nylon stocking over a coat hanger and run it through the water. This sifts out almost all the unwanted debris which has drifted into the pool. Nylons also are great for stuffing animals you may make or for dust rags. They make a good substitute for rope when tying up lawn hoses for the winter.—R.Y.

DEAR POLLY—I was ironing some patches on my little boy's jeans and accidentally ironed the wrong side of the patch. I now have all that goop on the bottom of my iron. I hope someone can tell me how to remove it.—MRS. F.H.

DEAR POLLY—I needed a string of beads to match a dress I had made but could not find any the right color. I tinted a long string of inexpensive pearl beads purple and they turned out a perfect match for the dress.—MRS. T.S.

in the United States. He has been on dozens of safaris, he said, hunting in places like Africa, Russia, Siberia, Outer Mongolia and deep in the Arctic Circle. He holds a world's record kill for an argali sheep he shot in Outer Mongolia. He has killed hundreds of animals, he said, but none because he gets a thrill from killing.

"I have fed thousands of natives with animal kills," he said. "I've killed many animals where natives were starving and provided them with meat for the first time in months. In most African and Indian villages, natives have to wait until an animal dies of old age before they get to eat meat."

"In India, the natives actually eat the tigers and leopards you kill. I killed an elephant in 1963 that fed a village of 300 for three weeks and I've shot hundreds of cape buffalo at government request because they were trampling and completely wiping out crops."

"One year in Africa I shot a leopard that had just killed a man and last year I shot a lioness that was in the act of killing a cow."

Lehmann says he intends to answer every letter he receives. "The little old lady-types won't understand this," he said, "but I feel I've made something of a contribution to the world. All those people who wrote these letters can't be vegetarians."

DEAR POLLY—I have two Pointers for Mrs. F.J.E., who wanted some uses for old nylon hose other than crocheting rugs. Make a pretty pillow of some washable fabric and use the nylon, cut into strips, for the stuffing. The whole thing can be thrown into the washing machine. They dry quickly.

The girls in the office where I work wear them under their wigs. The stocking holds one's own hair in place and keeps the wig from slipping. —KIMBERLY

DEAR POLLY—I save my old nylon hose and use them when brushing my hair. I slip the brush inside a stocking, it acts as a magnet for lint, dust and dead-skin flakes and keeps the brush clean. Snip off the stocking beyond the end of the brush. When finished pull off and throw away. No fuss, no mess. One stocking will do for about four brushings when used this way.—MRS. A.M.G.

DEAR POLLY and Mrs. F. J. E. — In the summer, when our children's swimming pool is out, loose grass is a major problem. We slip an old nylon stocking over a coat hanger and run it through the water. This sifts out almost all the unwanted debris which has drifted into the pool. Nylons also are great for stuffing animals you may make or for dust rags. They make a good the tape of the hearing and the letter of recommendation would be available to all aldermen upon request at the city clerk's office.

Four zoning matters were also given favorable votes on second and final reading: rezoning of property for school purposes for Illinois College and District 117, including the hog farm tract on Lincoln Ave.; a meeting hall west of Lincoln elementary school on Independence for ACWA Local 199; and rezoning for apartments for a tract of land between Fairview Terrace and Grand Avenue, behind the Marathon Station on Mound Avenue at Grand.

Alderman Fernandes announced that the municipal services committee would ask council approval to purchase a new pickup truck next week.

Virginia Girl Named Miss USA

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — For the second year in a row, Virginia has produced the winner of the Miss USA contest—this time green-eyed Debbie Shelton of Norfolk.

A 5-foot-8, 125-pound brunette, the shapely Miss Shelton was the most buxom of the 51 entries in the pageant with her measurements of 39-24-36.

She captured the crown Saturday night. Miss Shelton, 21, succeeded Wendy Dascomb, 20, of Danville, Va.

The new titleholder is the daughter of a Norfolk dentist.

First runner up in the judging was Miss South Carolina, Vickie Lynn Chesser of Mount Pleasant, second Miss Nevada, Sheri Lee Schuhl of Las Vegas, third Miss Tennessee, Donna Marie Ford of Trenton, and fourth Miss Georgia, Cheri Stephens of Atlanta.

Miss Shelton received a mink coat, $5,000 prize money and a $5,000 personal appearance contract.

Two Charged Early Sunday

Dean H. Baldwin, 32, of Route 3 was charged by city police shortly after 3 a.m. Sunday with resisting arrest and attempting to elude a police officer after an incident at South Main and Chambers.

Baldwin was taken to police headquarters and later released on bond.

He was originally stopped for a traffic violation but fled the scene.

A Missouri resident, Edmund E. Ryan, 45, of Columbia, was taken to the county jail following a one-car accident early Sunday and held under bond on a charge of failure to reduce speed. He was later released on bond for a court appearance later.

Ticket Issued After Accident

Jimmy D. Mitchell, 18, of Waverly, was ticketed for improper lane usage after the car he was driving collided with David P. Jones, 25, of 300 E. Morton.

Officers were told that both cars were eastbound in the 100 block of East Morton at 9:48 p.m. Monday when the Mitchell auto pulled into the path of the Jones vehicle and was struck.

Driver Ticketed After Chase

Freddy Johnson, 30, of R.R. 4, Jacksonville, was cited for attempting to elude a police officer after city police said they chased the car he was driving in the neighborhood of South Clay, Morton and South East Monday night.

Johnson was released from custody after he posted $50 cash and his drivers license as bond.

CARS DAMAGED ON SOUTH MAIN

No injuries were reported as the result of a two-car accident about 2:20 p.m. Sunday at the intersection of South Main and Anna streets.

Police say a northbound car driven by Harold Sooy of route five was struck from behind by an auto driven by Richard Shafer of Woodson. Sooy had stopped suddenly for a car in front of him. Shafer was looking in his rear view mirror and did not get stopped in time.

Shafer's car had to be towed away.

THE FIRST CAR to go through the safety lane after the ribbon cutting ceremonies Monday morning was Mayor Dan Lahey's. His auto gets a headlight test during the trip from a mechanic from Glisson Ford and Deputy Sheriff David Dickerson. Sunday's sneak preview resulted in 563 cars checked, 34 rejected and five returns. The main rejection resulted from improper headlight focus. Sunday's preview was manned by state police, sheriff's deputies, boy scouts from Troop 103 and Explorer Post 150.

REITHER on Beardstown

By Virgil Reither

BEARDSTOWN — Country roads and low-lying farm lands were being "reflooded" as a result of gully-washing rains which sent the Illinois and Sangamon rivers on new rampages.

Thomas Phelps, local weather and river observer, said Sunday that the Illinois river here has again reached 21.3 after falling about a foot from the previous crest.

Predictions from the weather bureau indicated Sunday that the river here will crest at 24 feet by next Sunday, but many river men here thought the 24-foot crest would have to be revised upwards.

For several weeks thousands of acres of ground in the Sangamon Valley have been under water and a few roads have been closed. Last week the river started falling and some of the roads were cleared, but heavy rains throughout the northern part of the state as well as here in Beardstown sent the river raging back to higher stages.

The 24-foot stage will be the highest reached in several years.

Farmers are again in a quandary about crops—the corn planting should be done. In fact on higher ground the corn blades have already reached through and are showing well in the fields.

Farm fields now under water probably will not be dry enough in time for corn and many farmers plan to substitute soybeans.

Fish Fry Success

Members of the Beardstown Fire Department and the Rescue Squad expressed elation and gratitude for the wonderful support by local people Saturday at the third annual benefit fish fry.

More than 2,000 pounds of carp and buffalo, obtained from Harvey Pate, were fried and served to at least 2,000 adults with a large number of children being served free.

Jack Wetherell, one of the committeemen, said that receipts were over $2,000; and Don Looker, another worker, stated that this fish fry was the best attended in history.

The ladies prepared potato salad and cole slaw, using 800 pounds of potatoes, 800 pounds of cabbage and 60 dozen eggs.

Fish eaters came from all parts of the area and the serving lasted from 11 a.m. "on." Many carry-out orders were prepared, and large numbers ate at the fire station tables and at tables set up on Third street in front of city hall.

Looker estimated that about 35 men and women assisted in the preparation and serving of the meal.

Potpourri: Despite delays due to the Korean war, the Vietnam war and raising a family of six children, Harry (Butch) Murray, a graduate of Beardstown high school in 1947, will finally get his Masters Degree May 28 at North East Missouri State College, Kirksville, Mo. He graduated from Culver Stockton in 1957 and has been a junior high teacher in Missouri. His masters is in science. His mother, Mrs. Harriet Murray, and other relatives will be on hand for the exercises.

Balaguer Wins Dominican Re-Election

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — President Joaquin Balaguer won overwhelming re-election in the Dominican Republic over the weekend, but more than 20 percent of the expected voters stayed home on election day.

Final unofficial returns from the voting Saturday gave Balaguer 607,717 votes; Vice President Francisco Augusto Lora, who broke with Balaguer last year, 240,557; former military strongman Elias Wessin y Wessin, 153,591; Alfonso Moreno Martinez of the Social Christian party, 58,949; and Jaime Manuel Fernandez of the National Conciliation Movement, 51,039.

Official returns are not expected to be tabulated until late this week.

The Dominican Revolutionary party, led by former President Juan Bosch, urged the people to boycott the balloting. Bosch, ousted by the military in 1963, called the election a farce.

The total turnout of slightly more than 1.1 million voters was considerably lower than in 1966, when more than 1.3 million voted. The government had predicted at least 1.5 million would vote this time.

ROCKFORD BOY KILLED BY FRIEND

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP) — A 13-year-old Rockford boy was killed Saturday by his best friend who fired two bullets into a wall and then turned what he thought was an empty rifle on the victim.

Eddie Pierce, 13, told police he thought the rifle was empty when he pointed it at the chest of his best friend, David B. Gresham, and fired once.

No charges were filed against the youth.

If it were simply a constitutional question to be discussed and voted on in the abstract there is little doubt both houses of Congress would be in wide agreement that something should be done to curb presidential power. But now the abstract question can't be separated from the Vietnam war and that is what makes it so hard for Congress to do anything at this time.

With the United States deeply involved in Southeast Asia and the future course of events there very uncertain, the President, as commander-in-chief, has a strong constitutional basis for conducting the war as he sees fit.

To say that Congress has the constitutional power to stop financing the war doesn't diminish the President's constitutional power to conduct it. If both should choose to go the full route, the resulting impasse would produce a constitutional crisis of unprecedented proportions.

That the Vietnam war and not the balancing of constitutional powers is the real issue in the Senate is indicated by the directly opposing views taken by Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., before and after Vietnam.

The office of the president, regarded by Fulbright as the most effective source of foreign policy in 1961, is now seen by him as one with unchallenged power of life or death over American citizens.

Fulbright hoped a start had been made on beefing up congressional prerogatives last summer. Under his leadership the Senate passed, 70 to 16, a resolution stating the president should not use U.S. forces to carry out a national commitment unless that commitment had been concurred in by Congress. It had no force of law but its sponsors feel it should have led Nixon to seek congressional approval before sending troops into Cambodia.

If such resolutions are too weak to command presidential compliance and cutting off funds is too drastic a step for Congress to take, debate and voting on such proposals do provide the focus for public opinion.

And that is the real power Congress can bring to bear on the President.

It is clear the drive for public support by the six senators sponsoring an amendment to cut off all funds for war in Southeast Asia by June 30, 1971, has as its major aim putting political pressure on Nixon to end U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

The resolution has virtually no chance of being adopted by Congress—if it should somehow squeak through it could hardly muster the two-thirds majority needed to override a certain presidential veto—but a strong vote for it, or passage by the Senate alone, could hardly be ignored by Nixon.

Such a vote could well be the action Professor Ruhl J. Bartlett had in mind when he was asked by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee what the Senate could do to regain a voice in foreign affairs.

"The Senate may need to do something rather drastic on some occasion," replied Bartlett, a professor of diplomatic history at Tufts, "to make sure its authority is understood and needs to be respected. It may be that the Senate will have to say to the President on some occasion, 'We will not stand for this any longer.'"

Business — Market Wrapup

Business Mirror

By JOHN CUNIFF
NEW YORK (AP) — The energy and initiative required to mail a preaddressed envelope by midnight tonight is all that stands between certain shareholders of American Telephone & Telegraph Co. and a worthwhile sum of money.

This is the last day, that is, for thousands of AT&T shareholders to cash in on their company's tremendous capital raising project. All 3.1 million shareholders were invited to participate. Thousands haven't acted yet.

For the owner of 105 shares of AT&T stock, this failure to respond to the offer is the equivalent of declining a cash gift of $45.94, based on prices before the opening of the stock market today.

John J. Scanlon, treasurer, reports that returns through Friday were slower than for a roughly comparable 1968 offering, but that a late avalanche of mail is still expected to make the offering a big success.

This is the story: AT&T needs money to finance expansion. The total was fixed at $1.569 billion, a record sum for this, the largest corporate entity in the world. It decided to seek the money from its own shareholders.

A complex financing plan was announced last January. AT&T decided to entice its shareholders to come up with the money by offering this deal:

Every stockholder was declared to possess rights in the safe number of his shares of stock. For each 35 rights, or shares, the stockholder was entitled to purchase a $100 AT&T bond, technically called a debenture.

But why buy a $100 bond at its face value when the same bond could be purchased in the market at between $97 and $98? For this reason:

—The purchase of a bond entitles the owner to receive two warrants, each entitling him to buy, anytime between Nov. 15, 1970 and May 15, 1975, a share of AT&T common stock at $52 a share.

"Some bargain!" you exclaim, noting that shares of AT&T closed Friday at $46.75 each. True, that's the price now, but that price can reasonably be expected to climb above $52 a share during the next five years.

In fact, a good many people are willing to bet on this occurring. Therefore, they are willing to pay you more than $9 each for those warrants, should you be inclined to sell. Your $100 bond is really worth more than $115.

But, you ask, how can a shareholder of 105 shares stand to lose more than $45 if he doesn't mail an envelope by tonight? For this reason:

Those rights have also taken on a value of their own. A market has developed for them; a lot of investors are willing to buy those rights from shareholders.

At the close of stock market trading on Friday, you may note, the price of AT&T rights was 7-16 of $1, or .4375 cents each. If a shareholder owns 105 rights, their value early today was $45.94.

However, a good many people who do not intend to buy those $100 bonds apparently feel that the matter is therefore closed for them and that they can toss the return envelope in the wastebasket. If they do, they toss away the value of the rights.

For that reason, every AT&T shareholder is compelled, in justice to himself, to take some action. If he wishes to obtain the market value for his rights he has these options:

—Sell the rights to a broker, although it's pretty late for that.
—Sign his name on the clearly designated line of the certificate sent to him and mail it by midnight in the preaddressed envelope. A check will be sent to him.

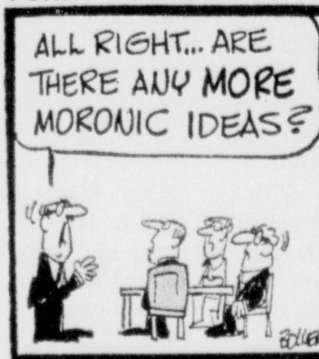

—Sign his name on the section of the certificate that transfers the rights to another person. This person must be named on the form. And, of course, that person then must mail his order for bonds by the midnight deadline.

What must be remembered is that the rights have no value after midnight.

If the stockholder still wishes to become involved in the offer, he must send $100 and 35 rights, again to be postmarked by tonight.

If he doesn't possess as many rights as he needs, he may purchase these by filling out the appropriate section of the certificate sent him and sending it in with his order. The money for the bonds must accompany the order. He will be billed later for the additional rights.

Study Tells Taxpayers Of Pension Perils

By CARLTON SMITH and RICHARD PUTNAM PRATT
If you think inflation has been bad lately, wait until you're hit with the tax bills to pay for your public servants' pension programs.

Today there are 2,165 separate pension systems in the country for employees of state and local (nonfederal) governments, agencies and bureaus — products of an explosive growth which in the past five years has increased the taxpayers' cost by 60 per cent, to a current $4 billion.

And that, says Tax Foundation, is only the tip of the iceberg.

Like a spendthrift trying to finance champagne dinners on a beer-and-pretzels income, many of these pension programs are living on a basis of "sign the tab now and pay later" — if you can. When the bills come due in the not-too-distant future, somebody is going to have to pay the piper, to the tune of billions of dollars. Guess who. Ol' John Taxpayer.

The problem is described in unvarnished language in a study just concluded by the Tax Foundation, a private, nonprofit research and educational organization. In the past 20 years state-local pension programs, along with the expanding local bureaucracies, have multiplied and spread like crabgrass after a spring rain. By next year, the foundation calculates, the pension plans will have a total of 7,800,000 members.

Now the plans are coming to an age where retirees in large numbers are going onto the pension rolls, and the benefits to be paid out mount into the billions. Unhappily, many plans were set up on an actuarially unsound basis. There was little calculation of today's costs and wholly inadequate provision for accumulating the funds to pay them.

Example: In Ohio, as things now stand, it will take 67 years to acquire funds sufficient to meet the present liabilities of the police and firemen's retirement plan, says the foundation.

Many plans, by contrast, are on a sound financial basis. In Massachusetts, the canny, dollar-conscious New Englanders put their plan for state employees on a pay-as-you-go basis.

WHEAT FUTURES UP; SOYBEANS DECLINE

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat futures gained more than 1 1/2 cents on the Chicago Board of Trade Monday, but soybeans declined nearly 2 cents and grain futures were weak.

Trade moved at only a fair pace until the closing 30 minutes when it quickened.

Some traders expressed the opinion that a report of serious damage to small grain crops in Czechoslovakia might have influenced some of the wheat buying. Other grains also tended to firm up after the report was made known.

At the close, wheat was 3/4 to 1 1/2 cents a bushel higher, May 1.50; corn was 1/2 lower to 1/2 higher, May 1.30 1/4; oats were 1/2 lower to 3/4 higher, May 68 1/4; cents; rye was unchanged to 1 1/4 lower, May 1.05; and soybeans were 1/2 to 1 1/4 lower, May 2.68.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market, which hovered near dead-center for the entire session Monday, closed with a slender advance.

"I'm encouraged," said an analyst. "We've managed to hold the gains today that we made late Thursday and Friday. In a down market, you typically get a 'Blue Monday.' But this didn't happen."

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials closed ahead 0.59 at 702.81. The average had spurted ahead 17.43 points Friday, the blue-chip indicator's largest gain since April, 1968.

The upsurge Friday, considered to be a technical rally, followed a session in which the average touched 684.79, its lowest level since April, 1963.

One development Monday that might have been expected to exert a depressing impact on prices apparently did not. That was a suggestion by Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur F. Burns that voluntary wage and price restraints be imposed.

Volume on the New York Stock Exchange skidded to 8.28 million shares from 14.57 million shares Friday. Brokers said many investors were staying out of the market because they remained pessimistic about the economic look.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was up .6 at 246.3. Industrials were up .5, rails up .4, and utilities, up .5.

Of the 1,575 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange, 735 advanced, and 588 declined. New yearly lows were touched by 164 issues and highs by 4. Tobacco issues were generally higher.

The most-active issue of the session was Ford, off 1/2 at 41 on a volume of 183,300 shares. A 170,000-share block of the issue — the largest of the session — traded at 41.

Ling-Temco-Vought was off 1/2 at 11 1/2. The company had announced that James J. Ling had yielded his post as chairman and chief executive officer under pressure from creditors.

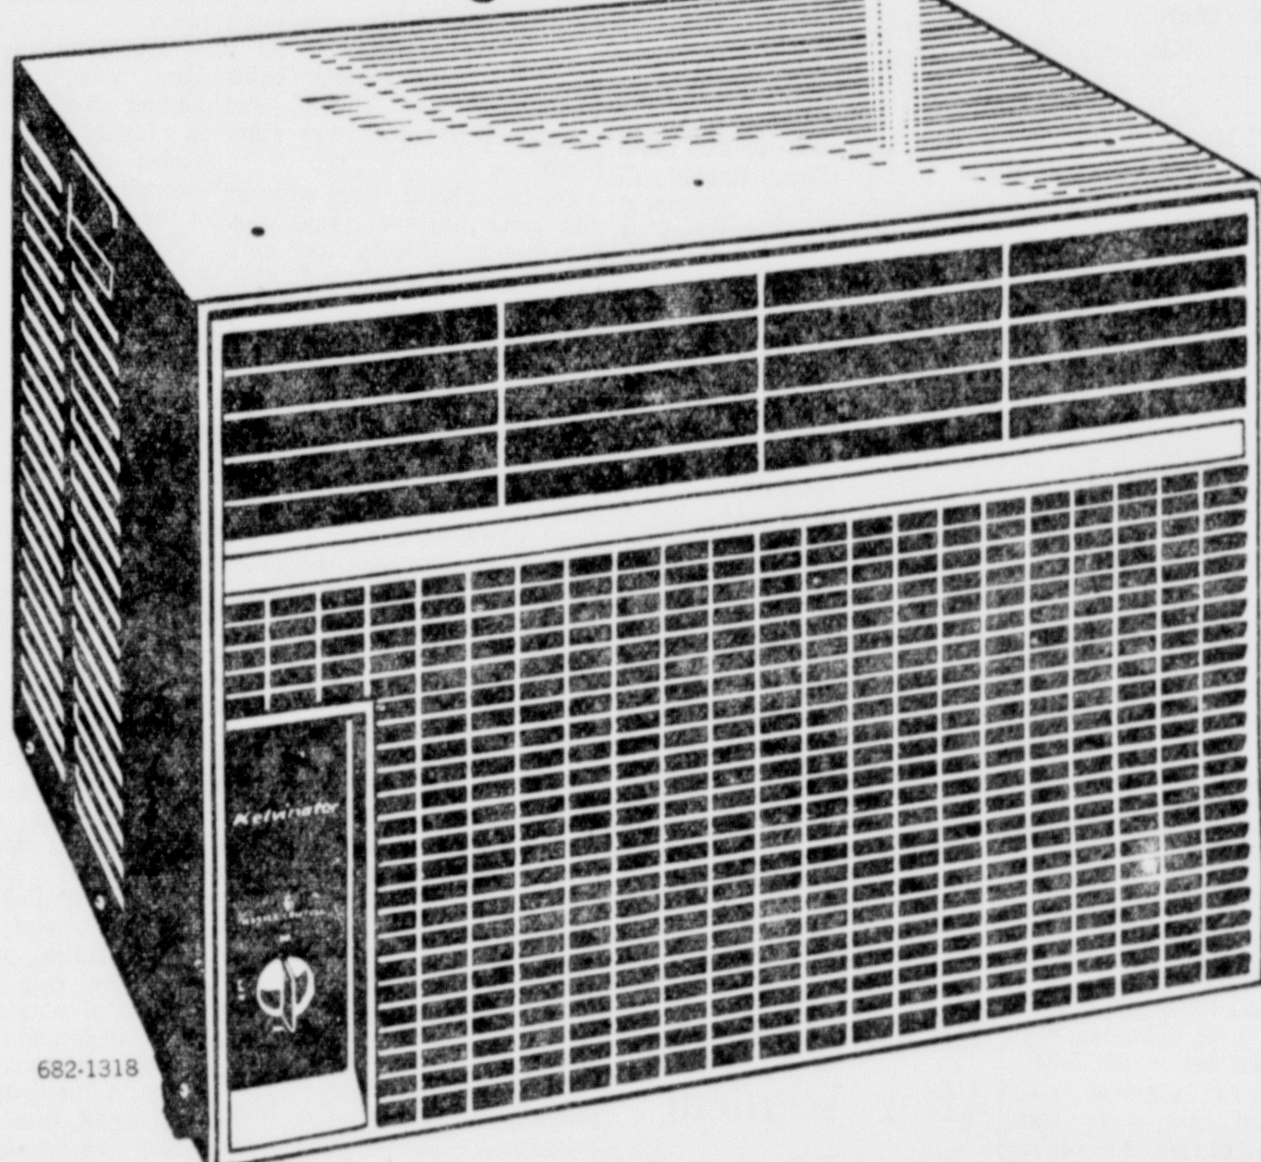

The number of blocks of 10,000 or more shares traded on the Big Board declined to 45 from 86. Larger blocks included 100,000 shares of Fairchild Camera, which closed off 3 1/2 at 31 1/2; 58,800 shares of Bell & Howell, off 2 at 31; 49,900 shares of Texas Instrument, off 2 1/4 at 93 1/4; and 42,800 shares of Jim Water off 1/2 at 23 1/4.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Daily Study, Sound Sleep
Beat Cramming Fatigue

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.
Examination time is a time of increased tension for all school children. This tension is normal and in 90 per cent of the pupils it helps them to do their best. For the remaining 10 per cent, which includes good as well as poor students, the tension may paralyze thought and create a mental hazard similar to that experienced by some golfers.

This is accentuated when the outcome is critical and the student's failure grips the student. Often the worry preceding the examination is far worse than the exam itself and it may be responsible for such symptoms as headache, nausea or severe depression. Parents should be watchful for these symptoms.

There is no drug that should be given to tide the student over. Drugs taken for this purpose often cause drowsiness or may even accentuate the jitters, but words of encouragement will bolster the self-confidence of the student. The best treatment, however, is the proverbial ounce of prevention.

The student who does his work conscientiously day by day is spared the frustrating fatigue of cramming and needs only a brief and relaxed period of review, which he should accomplish in less than two hours. A good night's sleep before the examination beats all the cramming in the world.

Q—Would dental X rays taken when I was three months pregnant cause my child to have cancer? No lead apron was used to shield my pelvis.

A—The hazards from X rays are deformities rather than cancer in the baby. With the short exposure and modern equipment, there would be no hazard to your baby from X rays directed solely at your teeth.

Q—A short time ago my son, eight, developed two lumps in his groin. They were removed surgically and found to be the result of a cat scratch. How contagious is this disease? Will it recur?

A—Cat scratch disease is usually mild and often goes unrecognized. It is caused by an unidentified virus; and when the scratch is on the ankle or leg, it may cause swelling of the lymph nodes in the groin. Incidentally, it is possible to get the disease from the scratch of a pin or a thorn if they are contaminated with the virus. It is not contagious and never fatal. It will not recur. The antibiotic, tetracycline, may shorten the course of the disease.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

City Council At Jerseyville Overrules Mayor

JERSEYVILLE — The Jerseyville City Council approved the purchase of a three-acre tract owned by L. L. Anderson adjacent to Oak Grove cemetery for $4,800 at its meeting this week over objections by Mayor James Dolan.

Mayor Dolan questioned the need for the property and said the price was too high. He stated that the land has been offered to the council for over 30 years at a price of $5,000 and this is the first council that ever thought seriously about buying the land at anywhere near that price. He stated the Council had offered the owners $3,500 in 1962 but the proposition was turned down.

Commissioner Joe Susnig told the council that members of the cemetery board felt it was a good purchase at $4,800. He stated the project could be subdivided into 180 lots most of which would be two-, four- and six-acre lots which would bring an average of $300 per lot. This would give the cemetery account a total of $54,000, he stated. He added this would be a choice part of the cemetery and he felt it would be a fine and needed addition to the cemetery.

The motion for purchase passed four to one with the only nay being cast by the Mayor.

The Council tabled action on bids for group insurance for city employees due to the fact that one company now doing business with the city had been unable to make a bid as they had not been notified of the deadline on bid dates. All bids are to be received for opening at the next Council meeting.

THE BIG ONE: Hank Powers of 1400 West Walnut, gets an official reading on this prize he netted with a line and a bit of hand-work Saturday evening at Lake Jacksonville. The big buffalo weighed in at 29½ pounds.

EASY NOW! — Two kindergarten students fell right into the swing of things at the opening of the 16th annual Free Vehicle Safety Check Lane Monday morning. The students attend classes at Grace Methodist Church and, naturally, such things as watching troopers wave cars through the brake machine led at least two enterprising help-mates to get into the act. Both young men felt it was much more important to help the troopers than attend classes, a fact they were still trying to explain as they were led off by their teacher.

Lions Bringing 5-Ring Circus Here In July

The Jacksonville Lions club announces a mid-summer date for its sponsorship of the appearance in the city of one of the largest circuses in the United States. The Carnes and Barnes five-ring circus will perform locally on Saturday, July 11. Contrary to usual practice the location this year will be a site other than the local fairgrounds. This is due to the already booked Saturday night stock car races.

According to Lions president, Dean Strubbe, and circus chairman, Keith Dirks, the attraction will include a dozen elephants, hippopotamus and wild animals of all kinds. There will be no carnival associated with this circus; however, there will be a free mezzanine where many of the wild animals will be quartered in a tent just adjacent to the main circus tent. The famed Sky King of television fame will be a feature of the Jacksonville performance.

An advance ticket sale by Lions for the performances will provide a savings for ticket holders. This will be announced as plans progress and the location site is acquired.

Blancas Captures Win From 'Brother'

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Lee Trevino is going to have to start being more judicious with his lessons—particularly to a "brother" like Homero Blancas who cashed a Trevino tip into the National Invitational Golf Championship Sunday.

"I never thought I'd get beaten by another Mexican," Trevino laughed. "The lesson I gave Homer only cost me $12,000. I won't charge him though, he's one of the brothers."

Blancas, a 32-year-old former University of Houston star, charged home with a three-under-par 67 Sunday to win the NIT with a 72-hole total of 273—one shot ahead of Gene Littler and Trevino, the peppery former U.S. Open King.

Trevino noticed something wrong with Blancas' swing Friday morning.

"I told him he should move through the ball faster from the waist down," Trevino said.

Blancas said the tip helped him hit a slight fade off the tee instead of a pull hook.

"I just started turning my hips more and began hitting the ball more solid," said Blancas, who immediately went out that day and shot a 58 over the Colonial Country Club course.

Using the tip, Blancas pocketed the $25,000 first prize for his greatest payday as a professional.

Littler and Trevino won $11,575 each.

"I'm very proud of him," said fellow-Texan Trevino who seemed almost as happy as if he had won.

Littler and Trevino both missed chances to send the tournament into sudden death after Blancas bogeyed the last hole. Trevino's 20-footer and Littler's 12-footer both slid past the hole after it appeared both putts would fall.

Blancas, who trailed Trevino by a shot when the day's play began, turned the tournament around on the 16th hole, a 200-yard par 3, when he holed a 35-foot chip with a wedge for a birdie. At the same time Trevino bogeyed the par-4 fifteenth.

Littler shot a final round 67 and Trevino a 69.

Hendrickson's New Science Book Off Press

"Apollo 11: Men to the Moon," a Harvey House, Science Parade Book, by Walter B. Hendrickson, Jr., has just been published. This book, Hendrickson's third in this series, tells about the dramatic first manned landing on the moon, and also describes the previous space flights made by Armstrong, Aldrin, and Collins. Some of the problems solved during the nearly ten years of preparation for the moon flight are described.

The numerous lively illustrations were made by the artist Vincent Colabella who has done art work for several books.

In addition to his nine books, Hendrickson has had numerous articles in periodicals. His most recent, "What the Mariners Saw on Mars," appeared in the April issue of the V.F.W. Magazine as one of several he has written for this magazine. Soon to appear in Analog, Science Fact and Fiction, is "Rover Does Tricks in Space," which deals with the atomic rocket program. This is the first of several which will appear in Analog.

Hendrickson will attend the Aviation Space Writers convention in Las Vegas this coming week. Speakers will be leaders in the aerospace field.

As a member of the Jacksonville Jaycees Hendrickson edits their news publication "The Chatter."

Red-Hot Pace

No Pressure For Aaron

NEW YORK (AP) — The 3,000-hit pressure shook up Hank Aaron so much that he batted .440 last week, widened his home run lead over Tony Perez and zoomed into first place with a season total of 40 runs batted in.

At the rate Aaron is going, Atlanta's Hammerin' Hank is liable to hit the 600-homer mark before the season is over. He went in with 554 and already has hit 16 for a total of 570 with 127 games to go.

Willie Mays, the only man ahead of him in the race toward Babe Ruth's all-time record of 714, has hit eight this season for a total of 608. Aaron is closing the gap by leaps and bounds.

Aaron's hitting surge during the past week, climaxed by Sunday's advance into the 3,000-hit club, included 11 hits in 25 at bats. As a result, Aaron moved into the Top Ten in the National League with a season mark of .343, good for eighth place.

Rico Carty, an Atlanta teammate, not only saw his consecutive hitting streak snapped by 3 but lost the batting lead to Billy Grabarkewitz, the Los Angeles Dodgers' third baseman. Carty's seven hits in 20 trips cost him 12 points, dropping his average to .409 while Grabarkewitz stung the ball at a 10 for 18 clip, picked up 34 points for a leading .420 average.

Perez, Cincinnati's powerful slugger, hung in there with 10 hits in 26 trips but slipped to third place at .394.

In the American League, Alex Johnson of the California Angels and Frank Robinson of the Baltimore Orioles are running neck and neck for the batting lead at .368. However, if it is carried out to another percentage point Johnson has a slight edge at .3690 to Robinson's .3679. Actually, Rod Carew of Minnesota is hitting .407 but he has been up 81 times, four short of the current standard used by the AP statistical bureau.

Jim Spencer, the Angels' first baseman who led the league last week at .384 had only six hits in 29 at bats and lost 51 points to .333.

Little League

The Red Sox outlasted the Yankees and the Cards ripped the Giants in a pair of Little League contests Monday evening.

The Red Sox scored at least once in each inning, including eight times in the second, to down the Yankees 18-14, while the Cards rolled to a 9-1 count over the Giants. Both the winning teams now stand 2-0 on the season.

Red Sox 482 211-18

Bailey's 'Slam In Ninth Inning Dumps Mets, 8-4

MONTREAL (AP) — Pinch-hitter Bob Bailey's grand slam homer in the ninth inning gave the Montreal Expos an 8-4 victory over the New York Mets Monday despite consecutive Met homers in the eighth by Dave Marshall, Joe Foy and Jerry Grote before a record Montreal crowd of 21,004 fans.

Montreal broke loose for five in the last of the ninth against three Met pitchers after knocking out starter Gary Gentry in the eighth.

Ron Brand's pinch single started the rally against Ron Taylor. After Tug McGraw took over the pitching, Marv Staehle forced Brand. Pinch hitter Adolfo Phillips walked and Rusty Staub doubled to tie the score.

After Ron Fairly was walked intentionally, loading the bases, the Expos sent up Bailey to bat for Jim Fahey and the Mets countered with Cal Koonce as the third pitcher of the inning.

Bailey then hit the ball over the right field fence for his first homer of the year.

The Met homers in the eighth had broken up a duel between Bill Stoneman and Gentry. New York 000 100 030-4 9 0 Montreal 010 000 025-8 12 1

Johnson's Hit Lets California Down Chisox 6-1

CHICAGO (AP) — Alex Johnson's two-run single in the third inning and Ken McMullen's lead-off homer in the fourth backed the five-hit pitching of Andy Messersmith Monday night, helping the California Angels to a 6-1 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

Messersmith boosted his record to 5-3 and had a two-hit shutout until the Sox broke the spell in the seventh on a run-scoring, pinch single by John Matias.

Messersmith launched the Angels' scoring in the third when he singled with one out but was forced at second by Sandy Alomar. After Jim Fregosi and Roger Repoz both walked, Johnson delivered his two-run single.

McMullen made it 3-0 in the fourth with his third homer and the Angels added two more in the top of the seventh on a sacrifice fly by Repoz and a run-scoring single by Jim Spencer.

Fregosi closed out the Angels' scoring with a solo homer in the ninth, his fourth hit of the night. California 002 100 201-6 10 2 Chicago 000 000 100-1 3 0

Set First Golf Tourney Here

The first major golf tournament in Jacksonville this summer has been slated for May 30-31.

Nichols Park golf pro Bill Lynn has slated a 36-hole, two-man best ball tourney at the Park during the Memorial Day weekend. There will be both a scratch and handicap division, with a $3 entry fee. A handicap is not needed to enter, as the first 18 holes will be used to establish the handicap. Eighteen holes will be played each day.

Lynn also announced Monday that work is being completed on the new pro shop and it is hoped that the new facility will be in use before the upcoming tournament.

Lynn also commented that he had planned to have new Astro-Turf tees in use by now, but due to weather and the truck strike, it will now be a few more weeks.

The City Tournament has been scheduled for Aug. 8-9 and 15-16.

Mays Is Next

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Willie Mays is next in line to follow Atlanta's Hank Aaron into the exclusive ranks of the 3,000-hit club. But Willie says he won't even try to guess when that will be.

"Whenever I get there, I'll take it," said the San Francisco

Giants star, who was 39 this month and is in his 20th major league season.

"I just hope I can keep going," Mays added in an interview Monday. "I don't bother about the statistics."

The way he is going, the Say Hey Kid could reach the 3,000-hit total in mid-summer.

Through Sunday, he had 30 hits for a career total of 2,956, was batting .288, or five points above his 1969 average, and had added eight homers to the even 600 he had when last season ended.

Mays said he was happy at the achievement of his good friend Aaron in becoming the first major leaguer ever to get 3,000 base hits that included more than 500 home runs.

Aaron got his 507th homer Sunday in Cincinnati along with two singles to raise his hit total to 3,002. Only eight other players have exceeded 3,000 hits in major league history. Ty Cobb heads the list with 4,191, followed by Stan Musial with 3,630.

Breakdown On Owners Bid Given

CHICAGO (AP) — A club-by-club breakdown of the major league baseball players' rejection of the owners' recent contract proposal was reported Monday by the Chicago Sun-Times.

Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Baseball Players' Association, last week announced the players had voted to reject by a 505-89 margin but had refused to give the club-by-club breakdown.

Only the Philadelphia Phillies voted for acceptance by a 195 majority. The rest of the National League clubs, according to the Sun-Times, rejected by the following totals:

Chicago 22-3; New York 25-0; Pittsburgh 23-1; St. Louis 24-1; Montreal 17-3; Cincinnati 17-9; Atlanta 22-2; San Francisco 23-0; Los Angeles 19-6; Houston 25-0 and San Diego 21-4.

The American League breakdown was Chicago 24-0; Minnesota 23-1; California 23-1; Oakland 25-0; Kansas City 25-0; Milwaukee 18-7; Boston 21-4; New York 20-5; Washington 22-3; Cleveland 23-2; Detroit 23-2; and Baltimore 14-11.

In some cases, as indicated by the Chicago White Sox 24-0 vote, players turned in blank ballots.

Veteran Golfer Marr Adds TV To Activities

ATLANTA (AP) — "It's not too difficult," Dave Marr said of his new job. "After all, I'm talking about something I'm supposed to know about."

"Of course," he mused. "The jury may still be out on that."

Marr, an 11-year veteran of the pro golf tour, PGA champion and Golfer of the Year in 1965, recently has added a new dimension to his activities, as an expert commentator for ABC-TV on the network's coverage of pro golf tournaments.

Marr, a highly personable 37-year-old who now lives in Larchmont, N.Y., and plays out of Bretton Woods, N.H., is one of the more knowledgeable players on the tour.

He said his job is to bring that knowledge to the viewers.

"It's a new decade," the slightly-built, 5-foot-9 veteran said. "Some of the older players are beginning to disappear and a new group, a whole new breed is coming in."

"People see Gibby Gilbert and John Schroeder and Hal Irwin and Bob Smith and they want to know who they are, what makes them tick, what their game is like and what they're like. That's what I'm supposed to do."

Marr is a refreshingly candid man who admits "I make more from other sources than I do playing golf."

Marr, the son of a golf professional and a one-time assistant to Claude Harmon, said he has had a long-time interest in television and that interest was one reason for his move to suburban New York.

Brabham Top Foreign Threat To Take 500

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Jack Brabham uncanceled his new race car at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway Monday and became the chief foreign threat to win the rich Memorial Day 500-mile race.

The 44-year-old Australian, who now lives in England, missed the first weekend of qualifying when the car was held up for seven days in New York because of a trucking strike.

"We are starting awfully late and we have a lot of work to do with a machine that hasn't been on a track before," the three-time road racing champion said.

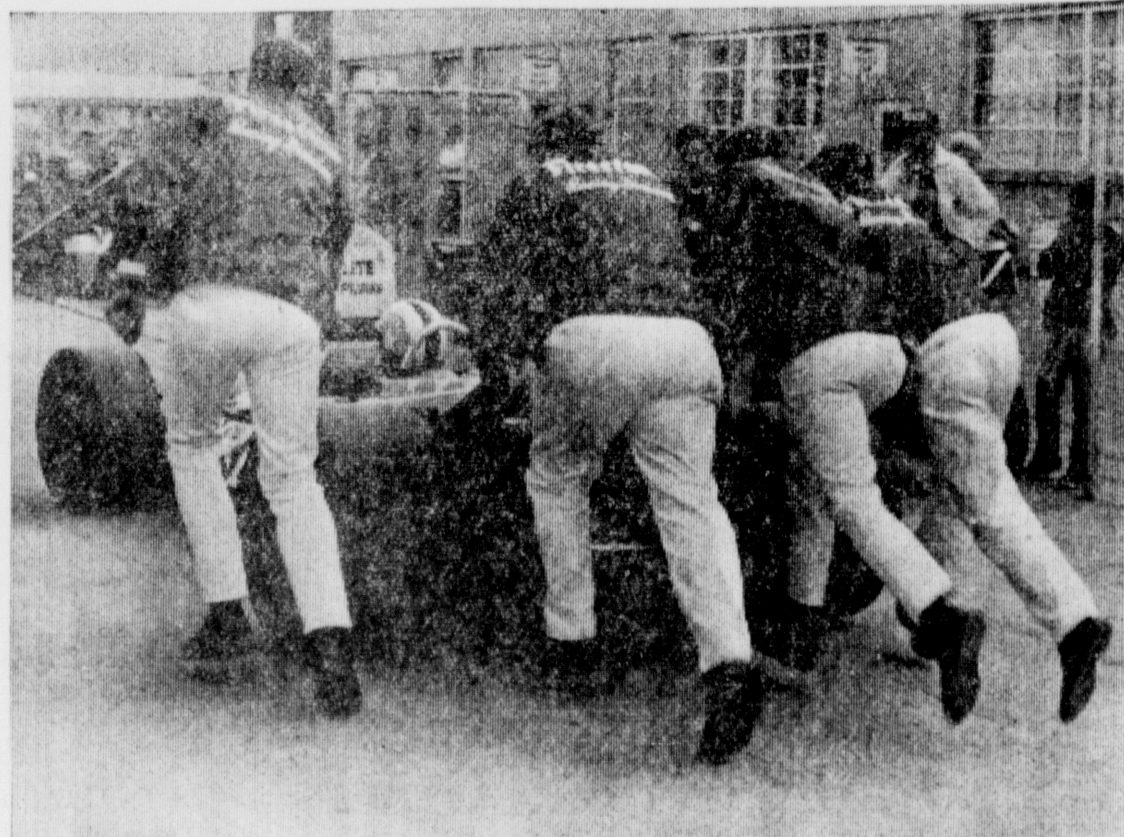

The Brabham, to be powered by a Turbocharged Offey engine, was designed especially for the Speedway by veteran Grand Prix and Indy builder Ron Taurance. Brabham insists, however, that the car is only slightly different from the one he drove in last year's 500.

A three-time starter in the Memorial Day Classic, Brabham became the top foreign driver entry when New Zealander Chris Amos left the three-car team entered by Bruce McLaren and Denis Hulme went to a hospital with burns suffered when one of the McLarens caught fire.

Hulme is due to be released from treatment Wednesday and there is a third McLaren waiting for him if he is able to drive. Meantime, New York sports car driver Peter Revson took over Amos' car Sunday and qualified it at 167.942 m.p.h., while Carl Williams put the backup McLaren in the lineup at 166.590. Brabham's best finish at the Speedway was in 1961 when he entered a rear-engine Cooper-Climax, qualified it at 145.144 and drove it home ninth in the field.

It was the start of the rear-engine revolution and the beginning of the end for front-engine cars at Indianapolis.

Flood Up To Plate Today

NEW YORK (AP) — Curt Flood, former St. Louis Cardinals' outfielder, steps to the plate Tuesday in federal court, swinging for the fences in an antitrust suit challenging baseball's controversial reserve clause.

There is a possibility that Flood himself will begin to testify on the opening day of the trial that is expected to have far-reaching ramifications before it is finally resolved, most likely at the Supreme Court level.

The suit will be heard in Federal Court here before Judge Irving Ben Cooper, and Flood and his attorney, former Supreme Court Justice Arthur Goldberg, have based their case largely on the principle that Flood has reiterated several times:

"I do not feel I am a piece of property to be bought and sold irrespective of my wishes."

At issue is what is popularly known as the reserve clause—but which is more accurately a set of rules—that bind a player to the team that signs him until he is traded, sold or released with or without his knowledge and/or approval.

Flood's case is unique because the merits of the reserve system will be argued in court for the first time. There have been other suits in the past challenging the rules, but they would up dealing largely with the issue of the court's jurisdiction. That will not be the case this time.

That was determined in pre-trial hearing at which Judge Cooper ruled "the trial must encompass the factual issues raised respecting the reserve system, hailed as a blessing by proponents, condemned as destructive by antagonists."

Fourth To Hit A Bit Unnerved

LOVELAND, Colo. (AP) — The par-three 175-yard 18th hole at the Loveland golf course will be remembered, but for different reasons, by four local golfers competing in Sunday's Loveland Invitational Tournament.

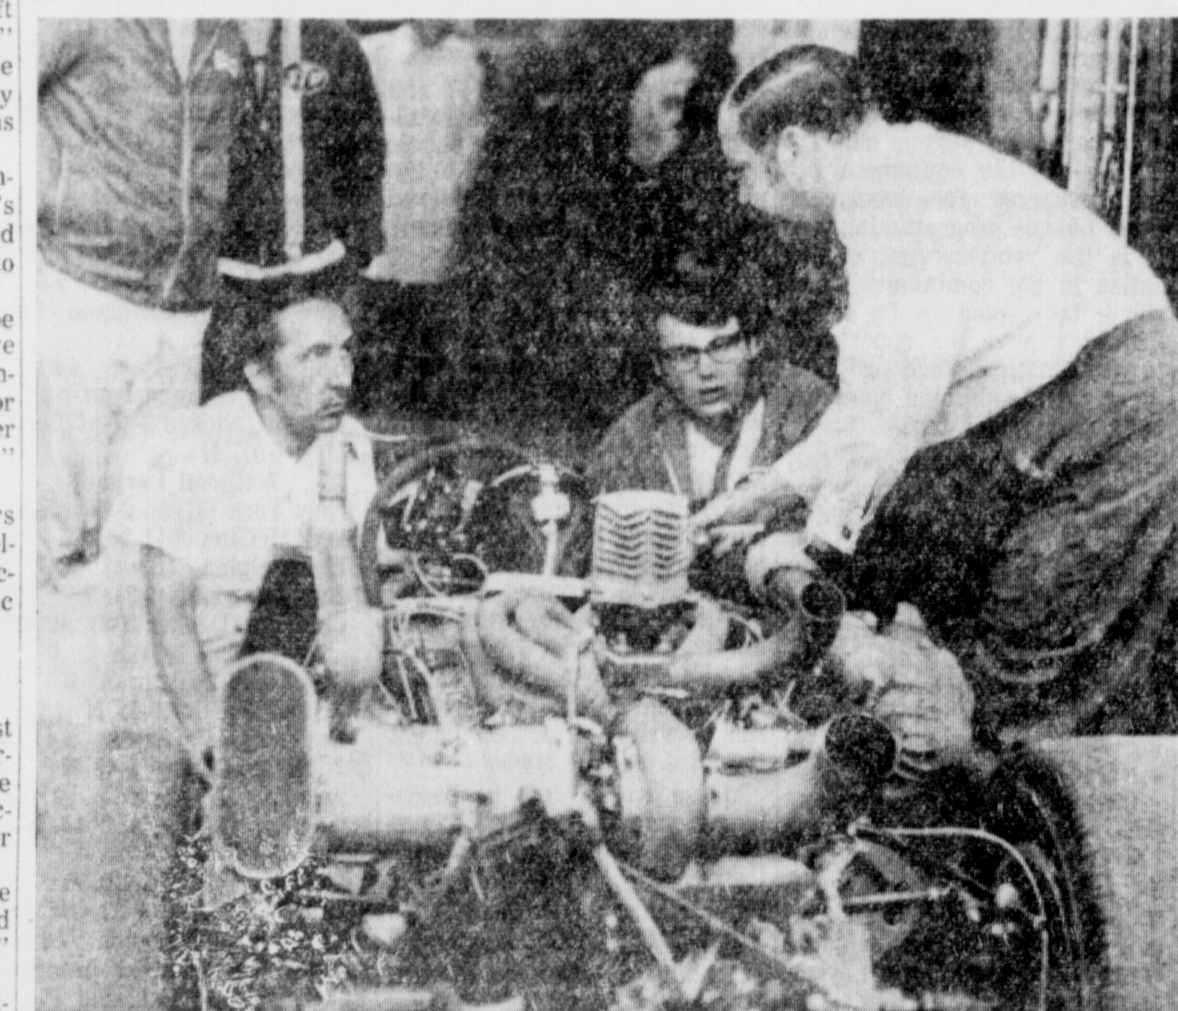

Walter Maitland of Drake was the first to hit. His ball struck the pin on his drive and he canned the short putt for a birdie.

Up stepped Forrest Knox of Loveland. His drive also hit the pin—and dropped into the hole. James Maxwell of Littleton followed with another ace.

Ed Dwork stepped to the tee, perhaps unnerved somewhat by the previous performances, and drove—but he needed three more strokes to get the ball in the hole.

Indians Desperate To Regain Support

(Last of Three Articles) By ROBERT WISCHMEYER CLEVELAND (NEA) — Out in the slice of April sunshine that warmed a small section of the right field stands in Cleveland's mammoth Municipal Stadium, two old fans took in one of the season's first Indian games, a resounding loss to the Baltimore Orioles.

As a high drive from Boog Powell's bat dropped over the moved-in fence and onto the grass beneath the permanent right field wall, one turned to the other:

"That wouldn't have been a home run last year."

Moving in the fence is an example of the somewhat desperate and often unsuccessful steps the Indians have taken in recent years to prop up fan interest and produce a winning team.

This year, the club figured Ken "Hawk" Harrelson, Tony Horton and Vada Pinson would give the team more home run power than it has had since Rocky Colavito slammed 42 homers in 1959—the last year Cleveland exceeded a million attendance. So in came the fences.

Then in spring training, the Hawk's right leg snapped as he slid into second base. It will be August before he can play again. Horton got a late batting start because he held out for a big salary increase until spring training was almost over. Pinson fell ill and couldn't make the opening-day lineup.

The Indians lost three straight at home to open the season, disappointing a flash crowd of over 38,000 (largest in the league that day, due partly to the fact that school children were excused from classes if they had tickets).

In the second and third games, played on chilly workday afternoons, only 2,440 and 2,811 fans were sprinkled around the cavernous stands.

Thomas McGuire, an estate planning attorney, was once one of the city's best left-handed sandlot pitchers. He is a Cleveland fan of long standing. "We were let down after the Bill Veeck years by management. I don't think the team has really lived up to its responsibility to the fans. Management didn't keep up close rapport with the fans," he said.

Under Hank Greenberg, the team grew old. Under Frank Lane (Clevelanders hiss when talking of him), seemingly fruitless trades were made. McGuire added:

"You've got to have a winner to attract fans in Cleveland."

Robert Dawson, president of a wire products manufacturing company who admittedly was crazy over the 1948 team, says unhesitatingly:

"There's no question in my mind that this is a good baseball town. If the team could hold on to its good players, they'd have the people down there."

"The team just hasn't had the financial strength. Outside of (pitcher Sam) McDowell, we have no trading bait left."

Dawson said he attended one of Cleveland's yearly Rib and Roasts sports dinners, where owner Vernon Stouffer spoke. "Stouffer didn't seem to me to be a very forceful man," Dawson remarks. (Indeed, the Cleveland team is run by a committee. It includes Stouffer and his son, James.) Dawson adds:

"I hope the team doesn't move. I attended four or five games last year, although I must admit with tickets given to me. I don't know if I would have paid to see the team."

Mailman Donald Antenucci, who holds a season ticket for the Browns games and plays slow-pitch softball in a suburban league, typifies the disenchanted average Indian fan.

"Who wants to pay $3 to go down and see them lose? All they got this year is McDowell and Finson and maybe Horton." But he'll go to a couple of games, he says, because he likes baseball.

NEW YORK (AP)— Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Exercise, far from overworking the heart, can give it needed rest. A Swedish physician found that a proper program of physical training slows the heart rate "and can spare the individual's heart 10,000 to 30,000 needless beats per day."

In the Tonga Islands of the South Pacific, pig's liver is so prized that it is regarded as a delicacy fit only for tribal chiefs. The highest tribute a Tongan boy can pay to a girl is to say she is a "fat liver full of oil."

Although an ordinary dog wags his tail, a hound, properly speaking, wags his "stern." A rabbit wags his "scut," a fox his "brush," and a deer his "single." And what does a wife wag? Sometimes her finger, sometimes her tongue.

Teen-agers are notoriously careless about selecting a balanced diet, but a government survey also found that women 35 and over are among the worst offenders in this respect.

Insects go on strike: The French are testing the possibility of using lady bugs to replace health-threatening pesticides. They found that the lady bugs could consume 600 plant bugs a day each, but—after 90 days—they found it too much work and hibernated for the rest of the year.

U.S. farm population has fallen so much—it's still declining—that four out of five students in the nation's agricultural colleges now come not from the farm but from cities. Most have no desire to follow their plow. They seek training for jobs in teaching, farm machinery firms and the chemical industries.

We live in a world which demands immediacy from all dimensions. "Now" is the order of the day. "Now" purchases, "now" entertainment, "now" clothing, "now" relationships and "now" solutions to all the problems of the world. What about the future? We're going to be living in it in all the tomorrows and should be looking forward to that time. The best investment in the future is home ownership. Owning your own home provides the emotional security and financial stability which will make the future a great place to live in and enjoy.

Home ownership is more than just an investment in the future. It is the best single investment, certainly the best hedge against inflation, available to any family. No other type of consumer durable goods increases in value over the years as does a home. And no other purchase enriches family life in the same way as does home ownership.

Despite its many advantages, acquiring a home of your own isn't easy in today's housing market. Tight money and an acute housing shortage make it more important than ever to avail yourself of the services of a Realtor. Now, during Realtor Week, and throughout the year, look for the Realtor emblem and be assured of experience, knowledge, service and personal integrity.

City Council Rejects Possible Solution To Linemen Dispute

The Jacksonville City Council Monday night rejected, by a decisive ten to three vote, one possible solution to the city-linemen difficulty which has been in evidence since April 22.

Alderman Dale Brown, chairman of a special fact-finding committee, introduced and re-introduced a complicated motion calling for the re-establishment of the line department and re-employing eight of the nine linemen.

Other points of Brown's motion included giving the men sick pay from the time they all started the "sick-out" until the time when they started showing up for work each morning. His motion was that they be paid two hours show-up time for every day since. He also proposed that the men be given vacation time for that period it would have taken the city to break a contract with a Pennsylvania firm.

His motion was ruled "out of order" until, as explained by Special Attorney T. C. Rammelkamp, it included the re-establishment of the line department. Rammelkamp explained that the proper sequence of events should first include the re-establishment of the department before the other aspects of the motion could be considered. The line department was eliminated by council action first on May 4, then again on May 11.

Motion Was "Surprise"
Brown's recommendation came as a surprise according to Mayor Lahey and several aldermen. Lahey said he attended a committee meeting before the regular council session, closed to the press, to discuss the current difficulty. "Nothing was mentioned about any such pending motion or recommendation at that time," the mayor related.

Two other Aldermen on the special fact-finding committee, Kenneth Kolberer and Clarence Scott, indicated they were unaware of any such recommendation. Both voted against the recommendation.

"All or Nothing"
Assistant Business Agent John Browning, apparently not to have accepted the recommendation on behalf of the union had it passed the council. He re-affirmed the union's position on the difficulty during the open council session.

Browning said, "We still consider these nine men as employees of the city and want all of them back to work or nothing." His remarks were accompanied by applause from the gallery of spectators.

Opposition
Opposition to Brown's motion was voiced by Alderman Larry Evans who contended that he didn't think the council should dictate the number of linemen re-hired. He said this number should be left to the managing superintendent.

Alderman Charles Quinn said he didn't feel the meeting last Saturday should have been held when a valid contract existed between the city and Utilities Construction Co.

Alderman Wilbur DeFrates said he didn't know why the council should direct a meeting such as Brown chaired Saturday and sign a contract before he had a chance to hold the meeting and report back. DeFrates' comment brought a round of applause from the audience.

Alderman Jimmie Fernandes said he couldn't accept the motion "at this time."

Brown's defeated motion included support from DeFrates and Quinn. Those voting against the motion were: Bourn, Doyle, Evans, Fernandes, Hazelrigg, Kane, Kolberer, Schulz, Scott and Spreen. Alderman Massey was not present for the meeting.

Shouting Match
Assistant Business Agent for Local 51, IBEW, John Browning was recognized after the vote was recorded. Browning read off a list of figures for what he estimated was the cost charged by the contractor and the cost to the city for hiring their own linemen.

Browning, according to the figures presented, contended that the city would lose $170 per week by hiring an outside construction firm to handle the line work. He also related that the call-out charge would be approximately $153 for the contractor and $14 for the city. He said it was his opinion, after talking with the outside crew, that they would not use any of the city trucks.

At that point, Alderman Fernandes asked Browning why the union didn't accept an earlier offer to put several of the nine men back to work. He also pointed out that the contracting firm has indicated their willingness to hire four or five of the linemen at the construction rate.

Fernandes said, "I think we've been fair (the city) all along, but you guys keep saying all or nothing at all. We're at a point of no return. Just ask any other union in town and they'll tell you we've been more than fair. We want to do what's right. We're willing to hire back five or six linemen but we can't use the entire crew."

Browning and Fernandes then, amid applause from the packed gallery, shouted their discussion of the loyalty of Fernandes as a union supporter. Mayor Lahey watched and listened to the "discussion" but did not use the gavel. Later, he said, "Fernandes wasn't out of order."

Adjournment Debated
Monday night's council meeting came as close to deadlock as possible with only 13 present when a motion to adjourn was defeated by a seven to six roll-call vote.

Alderman Cornell Kane indicated that further discussion would be of no real value and moved for adjournment. Fernandes seconded the motion and the council was almost adjourned until the mayor stepped in and called for a roll-call vote.

The line-up was seven to six to defeat the motion for adjournment.

Following that motion's defeat, Alderman Quinn inquired into the status of a zoning matter for a piece of property located on King Street.

The last motion for adjournment was declared valid and ordered adjourned by the mayor without a roll-call vote.

The only other items of business on the council agenda included deletion of an ordinance which would have approved a variance on West Morton Avenue to permit the local Kentucky Colonel to construct a sign in front of his property. The recommendation by the zoning board of appeal's will be considered next week according to Mayor Lahey.

Lahey told the council that (Turn to Page Five) (See "City Council")

Commandments For Ideal Non-Polluter

Editor's Note: This is the fifth article on Pollution in the Jacksonville area and Morgan county published in the paper through coordination with William Meyer, acting director at Morgan County Health Department.

This week's article is the final in the series of articles on pollution in the Jacksonville area. The response to this series has been gratifying. Complaints and constructive suggestions have been numerous. Many of the complaints were investigated and action taken.

One air pollution complaint was received from a group of students studying conservation at Triopia school near Concord. This was investigated and findings forwarded to State air pollution control authorities. It was reported to our department this week that the polluter was called in for a hearing by air pollution officials.

We have received many inquiries from groups and individuals about what can be done, both collectively and individually. Pollution was in practice even with the cave man who threw bones in front of the cave. Man has polluted ever since. Now is the time to become a non-polluter. Here are a few suggestions:

Non-Polluter
Refuse to buy anything sold in non-returnable bottles or in cans which don't rust or decompose. It's cheaper, not only initially but later, since there is no disposal cost.
Don't burn anything that can be recycled such as leaves and

Senate Passes Ogilvie Office Budget, 44-2

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — After defeating an amendment to cut five $35,000-per-year "executive coordinators" from Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie's 1971 office budget, the Senate Monday approved the budget 44 to 2.

Republicans and Democrats joined in defeating the amendment — offered by Sen. Alan Dixon, D-Belleville, in favor of an amendment which would cut only three of the new executive coordinators from Ogilvie's staff.

The approved amendment was offered in the Senate Appropriations Committee as a compromise between demands to cut all five new positions and those to preserve Ogilvie's budget intact.

Dixon's bill would have eliminated $332,400 from the $9.1 million budget, the committee amendment cut $225,000. Both amendments covered the coordinators' salaries as well as their staffs.

The amended bill now goes to the house.

Dixon said he was opposed to the principle of executive coordinators which he described as "patronage jobs not subject to the advice and consent of the senate."

The Senate turned down an attempt by Sen. Robert McCarthy, D-Decatur, to reduce the maximum interest rate permitted under Ogilvie's proposed $750 million anti-pollution bond issue.

McCarthy, a persistent advocate of holding the line on interest, the state pays on long term debts, sought to lower the rate to 6 per cent.

He said his amendment would save $87.5 million in interest payments during the 20-year bond maturity period.

Sen. Merrill Ottwein, R-Edwardsville, sponsor of the administration anti-pollution plan, said the 6 per cent limit "would absolutely decimate this bill."

A Democratic anti-pollution measure calls for a $1 billion bond referendum with a 5 per cent interest ceiling.

Citizen Group Reviews Future Action Plans

The "Citizens Concerned for Strong Public Schools" met Sunday afternoon at Hamilton's restaurant. The meeting was to inform the public of the action taken last Wednesday in the Senate Education Committee.

Ben Loudermilk, moderator of the group, gave a brief resume of the events that transpired during the hearing. The meeting was also designed to remind the public that the issue of public aid to private schools is still before us.

The House of Representatives has already voted on the "Copeland Act" which favors support to private schools. The group was encouraged to write the senators and express their feelings on the subject.

Harold Hendrick reported on the future plans of the "Public Awareness Committee." The "Action Committee" led by N. H. Butler stated that the presence of the 1,000 people in Springfield on Wednesday was influential in determining the final vote. The committee plans to express its opposition to the issue with a larger representation on future voting days.

An "Enlistment Committee" was formed to recruit concerned citizens from all walks of life to become active with the group. Phil McClanahan will be serving as chairman of this committee.

Jim Chambers gave a financial report and it showed the assembly to be in need of some funds. All donations are to be sent to Mrs. John Shafer, who is the treasurer.

Future legislation was discussed along with the action deemed necessary to keep the public aware of the proceedings in the State Capitol. A copy of the news release concerning Chicago parochial schools closing their doors for a couple of months at the beginning of the fall term was read and viewed with regret. The group regretted that such drastic action was to be taken in order to draw attention to their situation.

No future meeting was scheduled but one will be called by the moderator when the legislative proceedings warrant such.

The 16th annual Safety Lane swung into high gear Monday after Sunday's "sneak preview" in which 563 cars were tested.

The Safety Lane staff checked 1,020 vehicles Monday between 9 a.m. and 6 p.m. Rejections totaled 106 with 77 returning to get their safety sticker.

Faulty headlights, taillights, and stoplights were the most common causes of rejection.

Decatur Solon Tries To Force SIU To Reopen

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—A Decatur legislator drafted a resolution Monday aimed at forcing Southern Illinois University to reopen.

Rep. Webber Borchers, R-Decatur, sponsor of the resolution, said he also planned to ask the House to invite officials of all state-supported universities to testify at a special hearing on campus disorders.

Borchers' resolution said that any person compensated by state funds who is convicted of any offense involving interference with a university's operation should be automatically dismissed.

The resolution also provides for expulsion of students by the university president for interfering with the school's normal operations.

Borchers proposed that faculty members receive no pay for the period a state university is closed because of civil disturbances by students or teachers.

The House is expected to act on the resolution later this week.

SIU was closed last week by the board of trustees following a series of demonstrations.

Vehicles passing through the lane, located in the 400 and 500 blocks of West Morgan, will receive a 10-point check of their steering, brakes, lights, windshield wipers, window glass, exhaust, horn, tires, seat belts and mirrors.

Motorists whose vehicles are approved will receive "Safety Checked" emblems, and the more important assurance that their vehicles are in safe condition.

Vehicles that are rejected as a result of one or more defects will hopefully be repaired and returned for re-testing, according to safety lane co-chairman Patrolmen John Smith, Gary Fellhauer, and Paul Watkins.

The co-chairmen emphasized that no motorists will be issued traffic tickets as the result of any defects in their vehicles revealed by the numerous testing devices.

Information concerning the operation of all motor vehicles in the state, and license application and renewal blanks will be available at the safety lane Monday through Saturday. The service will be provided by representatives of the Secretary of State's office who will man a mobile office midway through the lane.

Official state road maps and copies of the Illinois highway manual "Rules of the Road" will also be available to motorists visiting the lane.

An added attraction this year will be a bicycle safety check lane next Saturday sponsored by local Amvets Post 100.

The hours are 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. until the program ends Saturday.

Cross Bridge Later: Lahey

Mayor Dan Lahey, questioned after the city council meeting Monday night, confirmed that he did not know whether anyone would show up for work from the Utilities Line Construction Co. this morning.

"I'll cross that bridge when I get to it," the mayor said, in reply to a question of what course of action he would take if nobody showed up for work?

The mayor exhibited a telegram from the Pennsylvania firm, reportedly received at 6 p.m. Monday, which stated that the firm would ask Local 51 to supply linemen as of 8 a.m. Tuesday.

O. H. Perry, business agent for Local 51, has previously announced that Local 51 linemen would not be permitted to work for "the city or any other outside contractor until the dispute has been resolved."

One local contractor had to cancel an earlier contract because they could not hire union linemen.

Outside men for the Pennsylvania firm have been in and out of the city for several days but were recalled to another location.

Lahey indicated that the council had given him "another route" to follow in case the outside firm cannot supply linemen to fill the contract but he would not disclose what the other route might be.

Three-Year-Old Shot In Back

A Jacksonville child required hospital treatment Sunday evening after being shot in the back with a pellet. City police say they are still looking for some subjects believed involved in the shooting.

Kimberly Kay Brogdon, three, of 127 Walnut Court was treated and later released at Passavant hospital. City police said the pellet broke the skin but did not lodge in the girl's back. Officers described the injury as a superficial wound.

Police say their investigation is continuing as they were told three male subjects were shooting pellet guns in the housing project area at the time. The three were thought to be between 16 and 20 years old and one had a bike.

The shooting was reported shortly after 6:30 p.m. Sunday.
